MAJOR CROFOOT

Pays a Long Standing Board Bill With Gilt-Edged Stock.

DIDN'T WAIT TO BE DUNNED.

There were signs in the air that Major Crofoot's landlady was working up her courage to proceed to extreme measures. These signs included leaving his bed unmade and uncared for, absence of mind when he asked for a second cup of coffee, a scarcity of pie when he happened to be late for dinner and stony stares on the part of the landlady as she crowded past him on the stairs. When he realized that a climax was not far away, the Major took the initiative and aggressive.

"Madam," he said to the landlady as he rose up from the dinner table, "if it will not be asking too much, I wish you would bring up my bill some time during the evening. I do not like my board bill to run on in this way."

"You—you mean that you will settle up?" she eagerly queried.

"Certainly, ma'am. You could have had a check weeks ago had you spoken of it. Do not fail to bring up my bill within an hour or two."

"I will bring it up within five minutes."

The Major had scarcely got seated in his room and lighted a cigar and placed a checkbook on the table before him when the landlady timidly entered and handed him his bill for 11 weeks' board. He received it with marked indifference, glanced over it with careless eyes and yawned as he said:

"Eleven weeks at $8 per week is $88. The bill is perfectly correct. Hold on, though! Haven't I had some extras during the time?"

"Yes, but never mind them."

"But we must find them. You are keeping a boarding house for the money there is in it, and when extras are furnished they must be paid for. Shall we say $100 altogether? Will that cover your bill?"

"Oh, yes, yes! Major, I hope you won't blame me for wanting my money, but you know—"

"Of course I know. No one expects you are going to run a free boarding house. Let's see. Your first name is Susan, I believe. It is with alloyed pleasure that I make you out a check for an even hundred dollars."

"How can I thank you?" gasped the pleased landlady.

"You needn't try to. It's a mere matter of business between us. If any thanks are due, they are from me to you. Mrs. Bates, you have shown your confidence in me. Some landladies would have jumped on me two months ago, but you have let this bill run 11 weeks and never said a word. Do you think I am insensible to such consideration? It is true that on several occasions I have found my bed unmade and trunk dragged out into the hall, but that was simply an error of judgment on your part."

"I—I hope you'll forgive me."

"There's nothing to forgive, my dear woman. Yes, you had confidence in my financial integrity, and I would be an ingrate not to wish to reward you. Thank heaven, it is in my power to do so, and at once. Mrs. Bates, did you ever ride out in a carriage of your own?"

"Never, Major," she answered.

"And did you ever own $10,000 worth of diamonds?"

"Heavens, no! I've always been a poor, hardworking landlady, you know."

"Well, prepare to ride out in your carriage and loaded down with your own diamonds. You have cast your bread upon the waters, and it has returned. Mrs. Bates, you know that I am a promoter, a speculator?"

"Why, I knew that you were always getting up schemes."

"Exactly, and it is these schemes that have made me a millionaire five times over. Let me inform you of my latest. Yesterday I incorporated the Great American Extract company, with a capital of a million dollars paid in. There will be a forty per cent. dividend the first year, and after that it will run to 100."

"Yes, but I don't understand business, you know," said Mrs. Bates as she looked longingly at the clock.

"But I can make you understand in about three minutes. This company proposes to extract the oils and essences from various things by a new and patented process. In strict confidence let me say that the spirits we shall extract from horse radish alone will warrant a dividend of ten per cent. We shall extract brandy from peaches, burgundy from tomatoes and champagne from pineapples and artichokes. In still stricter confidence I will tell you that we shall take the common burdock and extract from it a salad dressing equal to the best in market. Mrs. Bates, your hour has come."

"Good heavens, how you scare me!" she exclaimed as she fell back and fanned herself with her apron.

"In other words," continued the Major, with a bland smile, "you are to receive $10,000 worth of stock of the G. A. E. C. as a reward for your confidence in me. Inside of two years the stock will pay you dollar for dollar in dividends, and you can have your brownstone front and your coachman. Mrs. Bates, it pays to have confidence in Major Crofoot."

"How good of you—how good!" she whispered.

"Yes, $10,000 worth of stock, Mrs. Bates, but of course all free shares are expected to pay pro rata for making out the articles in corporation. This $100 will just pay for your share. You are a very lucky woman."

"But don't I get the 11 weeks' board bill?" she asked.

"Certainly. Here it is."

"But you don't hand it over."

"Because it's your pro rata on the stock, you see. One hand washes the other, you know. I congratulate you with all my heart. The stock will be ready in about four weeks."

"But you owe me $100," persisted the landlady as she fanned more vigorously.

"I did owe you $100, Mrs. Bates, but your pro rata has absorbed it. In other words, you have increased your $100 to $10,000. At one swoop you have ascended from poverty to affluence, but I do not want any thanks. Major Crofoot is a man—"

"But you owed me 11 weeks' board."

"—is a man who rewards those who put their trust in him. Mrs. Bates, the bread you cast upon the waters has returned—"

"But where's my money?"

"—has returned a hundred fold, and now, as I am very busy this evening, I should like to be left alone. As soon as the stock is issued it will be turned over to you, and should you wish to draw your dividends in advance you have only to come to me. Good evening, Mrs. Bates."

"But, Major Crofoot, you—you—"

"From turnips we shall extract a juice to take the place of cheap claret, and from cucumbers something equal to alcohol for medicinal purposes. In selecting your diamonds. Mrs. Bates, beware of off color stones."

She retired backward before his advance, twisting her apron in her hands and trying to figure out how it was, and presently he had shut the door on her.

"Major Crofoot!" she called as she knocked.

No answer.

"You owe me for 11 weeks' board!"

The silence of the grave.

"I believe you are a deadbeat, and I'll go to the police!"

Not a leaf stirred, and presently Mrs. Bates kicked the door six or seven times and went downstairs to ask the cook if there was any law to make her take $10,000 and lose a hundred.

THE VOICE OF ANARCHY.

I am Anarchy:
Red handed;
Blood handed;
Sullen and gaunt;
I brood in the minds
Of the beings I haunt;
And rob them of honor
And burn on their souls
The blight of my name;
A specter of dread,
In the shadow of ruin
My black wings are spread;
I clutch at the throat
Of the nation, and tear
The heart out of order
Everywhere:
With fire and with outrage,
With steel and with lead,
I strike at the body
By striking the head;
I live
To give
Destruction life:
And my supremest joy
Is to destroy
What those, at any price
Of sacrifice,
I build to make a nation strong.
I know no wrong
But right,
And that I fight,
Unreasoning and blind
In heart and mind.
A country's flag
Is but a rag
To me,
Whose hands
Wave in all lands
The crimson crepe of Anarchy.
All lawlessness is law,
In my esteem,
And no law other
Do I deem
Worth recognition.
Weapons in hand,
I stand
Outside the gate
Of the land
And wait
The hour
To exercise my power;
I kill
In order to fulfill
My law of lawlessness,
My doctrine of death
To body, soul and mind.
Then drink to the health of me and mine?
What matters a life or two—
A kindly head or a freeman's blood?
It is little enough to die
For a cause like mine that overturns
All order, and makes men free
By forging upon them, through ruin and blood,
The fetters of Anarchy.

—William J. Lantieri in the New York Sun.

A Request From the Mountains.

We have received from a friend the following request: "I am in need of some information in regard to the intellectual and moral product of the 'mountain country of Kentucky.' I know of nothing that attempts a generous treatment of that people, whom I am inclined to believe furnished, everything considered, their full quota of strong men for every calling and enterprise of the state."

We are not able to give this information, or to satisfactorily comply with this request, and we publish these sentences from the letter of our friend for the purpose of asking our readers if any one of them can supply this information. We know that during the past five years some newspaper articles have been published and some valuable information was contained therein; but we cannot recall the time when or the paper in whose columns these articles were published. What is desired is some accurate statement of the distinguished men furnished by what are known as the mountain counties to the Nation, to Kentucky and to other states. We want their names and some account of their lives. Is there not some one also who can furnish to The Herald a fuller account of the educational institutions which are now established in those mountain counties? We especially ask our friends who reside in those counties to do us the favor to answer this request. There is in every one of those counties some friend of The Herald who can furnish this information as to his county; and then we will take, if necessary, the trouble to compile from these various answers the required information.—Lexington Herald.

Working Night and Day.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was made is Dr. King's New Life Pills. These pills change weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, brain-fag into mental power. They're wonderful in building up the health. Only 25c per box. Sold by J. T. Day, Hazel Green, or S. S. Combs & Sons, Campton.

Men of Enterprise Wanted.

More men like Henry Pieratt are needed in our community at once. That is men who will erect cottages for rent, that people who wish to avail of the advantages of our academy may be able to do so. He has in course of building four 5-room cottages and we believe all of them have been spoken in advance. Forty houses in which families could be accommodated might be rented if we only had men of sufficient public spirit to erect them, and those of our citizens who own land adapted to the purpose should look to it at once. The school attendance would thus be doubled and our merchants would have that many more customers. Indeed, the general good that could thus be done is almost inestimable, and men of means should see that no one is turned away for want of a house to live in.

The New Stone Culverts.

The town council of Hazel Green have acted wisely and well in ordaining that the old wooden bridges shall be replaced by stone culverts. The former, like the old wooden bridge across Red river, have always been a source of expense and annoyance, and have at times been exceedingly dangerous. The wonder is, indeed, that the town has not been called upon to pay damages for an injured horse, because holes large enough to admit a horse's leg have frequently appeared, and only the instinct of the horse prevented an accident. The stone culverts will eliminate all danger, save expense and last for years without repair. But there is no use to ordain unless they do, and the sooner this work is done the better. It ought to be completed before cold weather.

A Shocking Calamity

"Lately befell a railroad laborer," writes Dr. A. Kellett, of Willford, Ark. "His foot was badly crushed, but Bucklen's Arnica salve quickly cured him." It's simply wonderful for burns, boils, piles and all skin eruptions. It's the world's champion healer. Cure guaranteed. 25c. Sold by J. T. Day, Hazel Green, or S. S. Combs & Sons, Campton.

Circuit Judge Scott has dismissed the suit brought by the Democrats, in which they sought to overthrow the work done by Republican County Judge E. C. Milion, in redistricting Madison county.

LEON F. CZOLGOSZ was placed on trial Monday for the murder of President McKinley on September 6. The trial was in the Supreme Court of Erie county, Buffalo, N. Y., Judge Truman C. White presiding. He was found guilty, and he will be sentenced today, and what that sentence will be is a question of paramount importance. Only for the assertion by some of the medical fraternity that "the doctors killed him," Czolgosz would undoubtedly have been hung—no, electrocuted—as that is the punishment in New York state for capital crimes. But under our laws the prisoner is given the benefit of all doubts, and in this instance the doubt as to the immediate cause of the president's death may influence the Judge in passing sentence. Should it do so life imprisonment will be the sentence, and that will be altogether unsatisfactory.

The many friends of Miss Molly Haney, formerly of our town, will rejoice to hear that she has a position as nurse at St. Joseph's Hospital, Lexington, and nothing could be more congenial to one of her disposition. Gentle, quiet, kind, sympathetic, we opine that under the motherly care and admonition of Sister Euphrasia, the superior of that institution, she will in time become a favorite and famous nurse. She possesses the essential qualifications for a career of that kind to a remarkable extent, and should she fail to fulfill our forecast then there is nothing in natural endowment.

Maud, the premium bay mare of Taylor Day's, and which was kicked on the forearm by a mule some time ago, died from her injuries on Monday week.

The letter from Mrs. John Adams which brought the news about Miss Molly Haney, also stated that Mrs. Lula Jones, Lula Adams that was, is at St. Joseph's Hospital, where she has been confined with typhoid fever for six weeks past, and Miss Molly is her nurse. Mrs. Adams also writes that Farmer Adams, well known around Hazel Green, is dead, but gives no particulars.

MARRIED AND ARRESTED.

Such Was the Fate of William Williams on Thursday of Last Week.

Last Thursday was a day of considerable excitement in Hazel Green. Early in the day it was announced that Myrtle Franklin, the daughter of Dick Franklin and wife, of color, was to be married at high noon. In the meantime the groom-to-be, William Williams, colored, approached H. F. Pieratt and asked for change for a $20 bill. Mr. Pieratt did not have it and Williams then called upon Weed Garrett, clerk at J. T. Day's store, who hastily changed the bill, but remembering that it had a peculiar "feel," he took the bill from his pocket and examined it more minutely, when he discovered that in was a raised bill, being a one dollar changed to a $20 by passing "20" in three several places. He called Williams, told him the bill was raised from a "one" to "twenty," and pointed out to him the many discrepancies and bungle-some work in changing the bill from one to $20, thinking that he could not read. When it was then explained Williams remarked "Yes, I see it now." But from there, within 30 minutes, he went to John M. Rose and again demanded change. Mr. Rose did not have the change but noticed that the bill was a bad one. It was then thought that Williams was trying to "do" some one on the bill, notwithstanding young Mr. Garrett had warned him of its crookedness, and arrangements were made to change it. But when Mr. Rose told him Henry Cecil could give him the change, Williams said he would not have it changed. A conference was held and these facts discussed when a warrant was sworn out against him for attempting to pass a raised bill. Deputy Sheriff Pieratt repaired to the residence of the bride-to-be, and arrived before the twain had been united. He arrested Williams and took him before Judge Wheeler, who ordered him before the grand jury, then in session at Campton. After that Williams asked Mr. Pieratt to go with him to the residence of his fiancée, which he did, and Rev. Mr. French being called, united the twain in the holy bonds, &c. Naturally he wanted to be with his bride and hunted up bondsmen for his appearance on the following morning. Dr. Andy Nickell and John Ward became his sureties in the sum of $100.

THE BOND.

We, and each of us, bind ourselves indebted to H. F. Pieratt, D. S., for the appearance of Wm. Williams, of color, at Pieratt's store, in Hazel Green, Ky., at 7 o'clock a. m., Sept. 20th, 1901, and Williams hereby agrees, in the event he should leave to deliver to his bondsmen, John Ward and Dr. A. C. Nickell, his newly married wife without the sound of a hammer.

Wm. X WILLIAMS,
mark
JOHN WARD,
A. C. NICKELL.

In making the bond Williams made a X between William and Williams, leaving the impression that he could not write. He showed up promptly on Friday morning when Curtis Quicksall was deputized by Deputy Sheriff Pieratt to take him to Campton. Before going, he consulted W. H. Kash, attorney, and gave his note to that gentleman to defend him, when he subscribed his name in a very legible hand writing. He had learned to write a beautiful hand in one night. The grand jury indicted him, his bail was fixed at $500, and failing to give it he was remanded to jail. He said he got the bill from Jim Stacy, a drummer, and this is corroborated by Stacy, who was here Monday, and went to Campton to see if he could get Williams released.

Mr. Stacy failed to effect anything by his trip to Campton, and it now looks like the negro will have to stay in jail until the next term of court. In the meantime the bride has taken service as help to our better seven-eighths, and will grieve for her absent husband. One feature of this case is very peculiar, and that is the character of Williams, which is sans reproche among those who know him best, and there is great sympathy for him in his trouble. The young woman has much sympathy also.

B. W. Pursell, Kintersville, Pa., says he suffered 25 years with piles and could obtain no relief until DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve effected a permanent cure. Counterfeits are worthless. H. F. PIERATT.

ALL IS OVER.

BY SAM WILSON.

All is over!
Our ruler is no more.
Peacefully sleeping under the mound,
While tears of nations flow around;
And on and on the requiems surge,
The deepest strains of sorrow's dirge.

All is over!
Those lips will nevermore
Sweetly soothe the nation's ear,
And fill the listening heart with cheer.
Ah! who can sing his noble worth,
In wisdom's halls, or at the hearth.

All is over!
We'll never see him more.
No more upon this earthly sphere;
But O! remembrance will hold dear
Of him whose life a splendor drew
Around devotion's shrine so true.

All is over!
He's on a brighter shore.
He met death calmly—closed his eyes;
No tempestuous clouds bedecked the skies
And murmured in his last farewell,
"It is God's way and all is well."

Death of "Aunt" Nancy Chenault.

"Aunt" Nancy Chenault, well known in this immediate vicinity for her culinary qualifications and a woman of very pronounced principles, died at the home of Joe Miller, where she had of late made her home, on Friday night of flux, aged about 70 years, and was buried Saturday at the old Holderby graveyard. Aunt Nancy will be remembered with gratitude by many for her timely service in illness generally and for her individual introduction of many of the boys and girls to our town, a ceremony she performed in many families herabouts. She was endowed with good common sense which, together with experience, rendered her counsel valuable in household affairs, especially to the young and inexperienced. She had been married twice, her first husband being Chenault, whose name she always retained, although her last husband was named Lark, and from her account of him he was a lark, and no mistake. One son, Harvey Chenault, was the result of her first marriage, and he died about four years ago of consumption. Her first husband died and she separated from the last one. Poor old soul, let us hope that she is gone to a happy home where sorrow shall never more be known.

Poor old Aunt Nancy is at rest,
Her days of strife are over;
She views a brighter rainbow now
Than e'er she did before.
Hard was her lot, the passing years
Told on her wrinkled brow;
God called her soul to a fairer home
And there she is happy now.

We hate to note such transactions, but some mercant placed a lot of rock in the well being drilled by Ritchie & Kash for the new academy, and it took them several hours to drill out the foreign matter so they could go ahead. Whether it was done by mischievous boys or by older heads for pure cussedness we are not informed—but the deed caused considerable trouble, and we deplore the fact that such people abide among us. In a sense they are anarchists, and all true Americans are down on anarchy.

When you have head ache or neuralgia, try Triphene. Sold by S. S. Combs & Sons, Campton, and H. F. Pieratt, Hazel Green. tf

The contract for building the basement story and the other stone work of the academy was let to John B. Davis of our town, which is a compliment to him, considering that he had to bid against stone masons of Lexington and other places. The price is private.

Weed, you will have to apologize to the people on the other side of the creek for obstructing the pass way with this all but fragrant smell.

The court for the prevention of vice has been doing a good work in waging a truceless warfare against the immoral deeds, and liquor trade that are flooding the land, finding their way into homes and schools, and familiarizing the young with a side of life foreign to our civilization, and dangerous to christian purity. Society should have the support of every good man and woman in the land. The church and the home, as well as the nation at large, are interested in its success, and the cries of those whom its machinery has hurt, ought not to impede the glorious work. No right can be established that some will not call a wrong. No evil traffic can be destroyed that some will not regard as a trespass upon their rights. Those who deal in liquor will never approve a prohibitory law, and those who engage in other misdemeanors will not speak in enthusiastic praise of the courts for the prevention of vice. How true is that little nery stanza? "No rogue e'er felt the halter draw, With good opinion of the law." Sept. 24. GOO-GOO EYES.

The overcoats—if there is one—should be put in a jolt-wagon and hauled up and down that branch three times a day at a 2:40 gait. It would be good for Judge Blair to have the same treatment. May be it would jog his memory.

STOOD DEATH OFF.

E. B. Munday, a lawyer of Henrietta, Tex., once fooled a gravedigger. He says: "My brother was very low with malarial fever and jaundice. I persuaded him to try Electric Bitters, and he was soon much better, but continued their use until he was wholly cured. I am sure Electric Bitters saved his life." This remedy expels malaria, kills disease germs and purifies the blood; aids digestion, regulates liver, kidneys and bowels, cures constipation, dyspepsia, nervous diseases, kidney troubles, female complaints; gives perfect health. Only 50 cents at J. Taylor Day, Hazel Green, or S. S. Combs & Sons, Campton, drug stores.

Ought to Prove a Good Judge.

Through an oversight we last week failed to note a recent visit of our prospective judge, J. Weed Congleton of Campton, who was here feeling the pulse of the people and fixing his fence to corral the vote in November, that he may be probate judge. Although his visit was only a preliminary survey of the field, we speak advisedly when we say prospective judge, for with his popularity, his well-known business integrity, and his knowledge of the needs of Wolfe county, he should be a hard man to beat, and he ought to make the county a judge of which she would be proud.

As a mark of respect to the dead president at Lexington business and official places closed at 10 a. m. on Thursday of last week, and the majority of them remained closed throughout the day.

Don't wait until you become chronically constipated but take DeWitt's Little Early Risers now and then. They will keep your liver and bowels in good order. Easy to take. Safe pills.

H. F. PIERATT.

Owing to threatened trouble in the mines at Earlington, Gov. Beckham has the troops at Hopkinsville, Henderson and Bowling Green under arms, subject to moving orders.

Henry Braydon, Harris, N. C., says: "I took medicine 20 years for asthma but one bottle of One Minute Cough Cure did me more good than any thing else during that time. Best Cough Cure."

A Night of Terror.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she would die from pneumonia before morning," writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night, but she begged for Dr. Kings New Discovery, which had more than once saved her life, and cured her of Consumption. After taking, she slept all night. Further use entirely cured her." This marvellous medicine is guaranteed to cure all Throat, Chest and Lung Diseases. Only 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at J. Taylor Day, Hazel Green, and S. S. Combs & Sons, Campton, drug stores.

Looked Lankey and Lean.

While "our man about town" was listening to the gossip of some of our citizens seated around the stove in Pieratt's store last Friday morning a lankey lean individual walked in and proved to be Taylor Johnson, who had been confined to his home just 23 days with fever. Some one remarked his cadaverous appearance and he weighed himself to see what he had lost during his illness, which was ascertained to be just 45 pounds. He tipped the beam at 152, whereas he pulled 198 a day or two before he was taken sick.

The talk about his loss of weight was going on when Emery James walked in, looking like the skeleton of his former self, and he, too, weighed and the scale bar showed 187, a loss of 25½ pounds in about the same time, as before his illness he weighed 112½.

Both gentlemen are rapidly convalescing now, however, and hope soon to be active members of our town society, and the same hope finds a responsive throb in the breasts of their many friends, respectively.

He May Remain With Us.

Judge Swango, who with his wife is temporarily located in the Mrs. Emma Duff property at Spencer, was last week visiting relatives and friends here and spent two or three days at the Campton circuit court. The judge is yet undetermined as to his future course, and may conclude to remain in Hazel Green, where he still retains his citizenship. This he would surely do if he could but find remunerative or lucrative employment, for we never had a citizen who was so loth to leave. Like Micawber, he is "waiting for something to turn up," and hopes the turn will come pretty quick, and so do we.

Many physicians are now prescribing Kodol Dyspepsia Cure regularly having found that it is the best prescription they can write, because it is the one preparation which contains the elements necessary to digest, not only some kinds of food, but all kind, and it therefore cures indigestion and dyspepsia no matter what its cause.

H. F. PIERATT.

According to the ruling of Judge Cantrill in the Howard case, Commonwealth's Attorney Franklin has served notice of a second trial on Powers and his attorneys, and he will insist upon a trial when the case is called in October.

Norris Silver, North Stratford, N. H.: "I purchased a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure when suffering with a cough, doctors told me was incurable. One bottle relieved me, the second and third almost cured. Today I am a well man."

H. F. PIERATT.

A never failing cure for cuts, burns, scalds, ulcers, wounds and sores is DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A most soothing and healing remedy for all skin affections. Accept only the genuine. H. F. PIERATT.

Patsy Nathan of Henderson, Ky., shot and killed his wife at Evansville, Ind., on Wednesday of last week. She had separated.

Sid Darling, 1012 Howard St., Port Huron, Mich., writes: "I have tried many pills and laxatives, but DeWitt's Little Early Risers are for the best pills I have ever used. They never gripe." H. F. PIERATT.

State College of Kentucky.

The Agricultural and Mechanical (State) College of Kentucky offers the following courses of study, viz:

Agricultural, Horticultural, Chemical, Biological, Mathematical, Normal School, Classical, Mechanical Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Civil Engineering, each of which extends over four years and leads to a degree. Post-graduate courses of study are also provided, leading each to a master's degree. Each course of study is organized under a separate faculty. The general faculty numbers more than thirty professors and instructors. County Appointees receive tuition, room rent in dormitories, fuel and lights, and if they remain ten months, traveling expenses. The laboratories and museums are large, well equipped, comprehensive and modern.

The last Legislature appropriated $200,000 for a college home for young women, and a drill hall and gymnasium has been provided for men. Military tactics and science are fully provided for and required by Congress.

Graduates from the several courses of study readily find excellent positions and liberal remuneration. The demand is largely in excess of the ability of the college to supply.

Last year the matriculation list was 629.

For catalogue, method of obtaining appointments, information regarding courses of study and terms of admission, apply to

JAMES K. PATTERSON, Ph. D., LL. D., President, Or to Prof. D. C. FRAZER, Business Manager, Lexington, Ky.

ROAD THE TESTIMONY OF TWO WELL KNOWN CITIZENS OF WOLFE.

Mr. Cooper, Hazel Green, Ky.:

I purchased some of the Vitae-Ore of you in the latter part of March, and after taking about a half-pint of the Vitae-Ore Elixir my nerves were as steady as when I was 16 years of age, and I am now past 75. For more than a year I had been trying all the patent medicines and nostrums I could hear of to build myself up, but nothing did me any good until I used Vitae-Ore, which my wife brought me from your house. After using it a week I went out and did three days as hard work as I have done in 25 years, and I was not more fatigued than I was 25 years ago over the same work. It is the grandest medicine in the world, and I want everybody in the mountains to know what it did for me so they may try it. Hoping every one who has that tired feeling incident to old age will buy Vitae-Ore of you and give it a fair trial. I remain, thankfully yours for putting me on to this remedy.

JAMES LACY.

I can vouch for every word Mr. Lacy says in the above. I am his wife and bought the medicine of Mr. Cooper for him, though I did not have much faith in it, because we had tried so many things that did no good. I have also used Vitae-Ore, and am stronger and in better health than for years, which I attribute to its use.

(MRS.) SOUTHEY LACY.
